2. External factors

Subprogramme 1 will achieve its expected accomplishments on the assumption that: (a) member countries remain committed to giving due priority to sustainable development issues and to adopt appropriate measures; (b) political stability is improved and member countries are willing to cooperate on sustainable development issues; and (c) there are no significant shortfall in extrabudgetary resources.

3. Strategy

The responsibility for implementing this subprogramme is vested in the Sustainable Development and Productivity Division. The inter-related and complex challenges facing the region and the current social and political tensions have wide-range consequences that provide an appropriate opportunity for concerted efforts to strengthen the interlinkages between the economic, social and environmental pillars of sustainable development and to galvanize action at the national and regional levels. The regional challenges include increasing population pressure and the related rise in demand for water and energy services; rising unemployment, particularly among youth; unsustainable production and consumption patterns; the need to ensure water, energy and food security; the disparity between urban and rural development; low agricultural productivity; traffic congestion and unsustainable transport systems; and climate change and its impact on water resources, desertification and land management.

To enhance the impact of ESCWA's work and improve its services to the countries of the region, the subprogramme will contribute to the achievement of ESCWA's three institutional objectives, namely equitable growth and sustainability; regional integration; and good governance and resilience. It will focus on providing support to the countries of the region to address the above-mentioned challenges and to move towards a more sustainable development path. Specifically, it will assist member countries to: implement and follow-up on the outcomes of major United Nations summits on sustainable development, including the Millennium Development Goals 1 and 7 by 2015 and the post-Rio+20 agenda; strengthen their capacity to formulate, develop, and implement policies, strategies and action plans for the sustainable management of water, energy and land; advocate and support the integration of the water, energy and food nexus to increase efficiency and productivity; facilitate and support regional cooperation and coordination on water, energy and land resources for greater food, water and energy security; increase the understanding of green economy opportunities and challenges, including green technology transfer, to encourage SME development, job creation and economic diversification. Furthermore, it will assist the countries of the region to develop mechanisms for coordinated responses to climate change and other natural crises.

To support the efforts of the countries of the region in addressing the challenges mentioned above, the subprogramme will undertake/continue to:

(a) Advocate and raise awareness of the countries of the region on global commitments and the outcome of major United Nations summits and conferences on sustainable development, particularly on the MDGs and the outcome of Rio+20, and monitor and support follow-up actions;

(b) Serve as a forum for promoting policy dialogue on sustainable development issues and priorities for forging regional positions and perspectives based on the exchange of information, lessons learned and best practice;

(c) Support member countries in their efforts to improve the efficient use of renewable and non-renewable water, energy and land resources, including the application of appropriate green technologies, and encourage the integrated management of water, energy and land to achieve sustainable development;

(d) Facilitate regional cooperation and coordination on water, energy and land as the means to enhance food, water and energy security;

(e) Contribute to national and regional capacity-building, especially on water, energy, including renewable energy, and agricultural issues;

(f) Support the development of national/regional mechanisms for the integration of the economic, social and environmental pillars of sustainable development;

(g) Support the development of national/regional mechanisms to address climate change impacts;

(h) Support the efforts of member countries to strengthen SMEs for job creation and economic diversification.

This will be achieved through servicing intergovernmental bodies; conducting quality research and analytical work; organizing intergovernmental and expert group meetings; providing advisory services; implementing field projects, including extrabudgetary and United Nations Development Account projects; building capacities through workshops and other technical assistance activities; and, issuing technical materials to raise awareness about key sustainable development issues and challenges targeted for global and regional action in 2014 and 2015.

The subprogramme will strive to maximize synergies through collaboration with United Nations agencies and organizations, including the United Nations Environment Programme (UNEP), the United Nations Industrial Development Organization (UNIDO), the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO), the International Fund for Agricultural Development (IFAD), the Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO), and through participation in UN-Water and UN-Energy, and the Regional Coordination Mechanism (RCM). It will continue to cooperate with the League of Arab States and its associated bodies, particularly with the Council of Arab Ministers Responsible for the Environment, Arab Ministerial Council for Water, Arab Ministerial Council for Electricity as well as other regional mechanisms for coordination on sustainable development. The subprogramme will also seek to enhance its strategic collaboration with the German Federal Ministry for Economic Development and Cooperation (BMZ), the German Agency for Technical Cooperation (GIZ) and the Swedish International Development Agency (SIDA) and other donors to further regional integration and cooperation for advancing sustainable development in the region.

SUBPROGRAMME 2: SOCIAL DEVELOPMENT

3. Strategy

The responsibility for implementing the subprogramme lies with the Social Development Division. The subprogramme will build on the experience gained in previous biennia and will continue to advocate equity, social justice, inclusion and participation as the guiding social development principles.

Equitable and inclusive socio-economic development requires policies designed to promote social welfare and strengthen social institutions in a way that social development goals become an integral part of national development strategies. During the biennium 2014-2015, particular attention will be paid to promoting social development through: (a) a rights-based approach to social policy and social protection; (b) social integration; (c) a special focus on such key socio-demographic groups, as youth, the elderly and migrants; (d) employment generation; and (e) participatory development.

Inclusive societies that successfully integrate all social groups into the national development process are better equipped to maintain social cohesion during times of crisis, and to avoid socio-political upheaval. In that regard, there is an urgent need to promote social integration, employment generation and civil society participation in the formulation, implementation and monitoring of public policies. Participation, in this context, involves three different types of activities: (a) identification of citizens' priorities over alternative social development outcomes; (b) formulation and implementation of policies based on those preferences; and (c) monitoring policy impact on the lives of those who are affected.

Having documented and disseminated knowledge about social development approaches, tools and institutional mechanisms, the subprogramme will seek to build the capacity of member countries to mainstream social equity concerns in their public policymaking. Particular efforts will be made to support member countries in formulating, implementing and monitoring social policies and strategies designed to ensure a more equitable process of development. The subprogramme will also continue to assist member countries in the implementation of internationally agreed plans of action and recommendations, including the Millennium Development Goals, in the run-up to the deadline for their implementation in 2015.

In order to achieve the expected accomplishments, the subprogramme will undertake both normative and technical cooperation activities. The normative activities will include research and analysis on social development issues, the preparation of substantive reports and the organization of expert group meetings. Technical cooperation activities will include the provision of advisory services, capacity development workshops and field projects.

Partnerships will be further strengthened with other regional commissions, United Nations entities, international and regional organizations and civil society groups. In the process, the subprogramme will also act as a regional platform for the exchange of experiences, good practices and lessons learned in the field of social development, and for increased interaction between Western Asia and other regions of the world.

2. External factors

Subprogramme 3 will achieve the expected accomplishments on the assumption that: (a) member countries remain committed to increasing subregional and regional cooperation and integration; (b) there are no significant shortfalls in extrabudgetary funding; (c) the political situation in the region allows the implementation of the work plan; and (d) up-to-date and reliable statistics are made available.

3. Strategy

The responsibility for implementing this subprogramme lies with the Economic Development and Globalization Division. The Millennium Development Goals, the revised Damascus Declaration on Responding to the International Financial Crisis in the ESCWA Region, the Monterrey Consensus, the Doha Declaration on Financing for Development, the Doha Development Agenda, the Integrated Transport System in the Arab Mashreq, and the relevant General Assembly and ESCWA resolutions provide the legislative authority for the subprogramme.

To achieve equitable growth and sustainability, the subprogramme will work with rigor to support member countries to strengthen their national capacity to develop inclusive and equitable socio-economic conditions through pro-poor growth policies focused on employment generation and inclusive and equitable financial policies; and to develop knowledge-based economies with a view to achieving sustainable economic growth and poverty alleviation through the adoption of effective macroeconomics and the promotion of economic diversification and competitiveness for decent job creation. The expected results of subprogramme 3 in the biennium 2014-2015 will be reflected in the number of member countries that will adopt inclusive and fair macroeconomic framework and those that will request ESCWA support in developing national strategies for knowledge-based economy and competitiveness.

To achieve its expected accomplishments on regional integration, subprogramme 3 will focus on supporting member countries to continue the implementation of the Integrated Transport System in the Arab Mashreq including transport and trade facilitation and enhancing South-South cooperation. Special attention will be given to the creation of a platform for developing innovative infrastructure finance.

The subprogramme will also work to contribute to the achievement of ESCWA objective on good governance and resilience by means of enhancing the capacity of public institutions in member countries towards an enabling environment for development and peace through nationally led and owned good governance practices for productive public institutions, civil society organizations and private sector. The number of member countries requesting ESCWA support in governance reforms in line with macroeconomic changes will indicate the positive role played by subprogramme 3 in this regard during 2014-2015.

The subprogramme will achieve its main objective and eventually its five major expected accomplishments through conducting and delivering innovative research, multidisciplinary integrated policy advice, capacity-building, support implementation, as well as monitoring and evaluation.

The subprogramme will work closely with stakeholders in member countries including governments, development partners, civil society organizations and the private sector. Such innovation as developing advanced modelling techniques is key to ensuring the success of the subprogramme.

SUBPROGRAMME 4: INFORMATION AND COMMUNICATION TECHNOLOGY FOR REGIONAL INTEGRATION

1. Logical framework

Objective: To accelerate bridging the digital gap in the ESCWA region and building an inclusive, people-centred and development-oriented information society and knowledge-based economy for sustainable economic growth and poverty alleviation, in accordance with the outcomes of the World Summit on the Information Society (WSIS) and the internationally agreed development goals, through partnerships, innovation, knowledge and technology management

Expected accomplishments	Indicators of achievement
(a) Enhanced capacity of member countries to fully operationalize knowledge-based economies for sustainable economic growth and poverty alleviation	(a) (i) Increased number of member countries implementing information and communications technology policies, strategies and plans of action, with the direct or indirect assistance of ESCWA, that emphasize the development of knowledge-based economies  (ii) Increased number of member countries showing progress in the implementation of internationally agreed indicators on knowledge-based economy, with ESCWA assistance

2. External factors

Subprogramme 4 will achieve the expected accomplishments on the assumption that: (a) the political situation in the region is conducive to socio-economic development; (b) the security status of the operating environment does not deteriorate; (c) member countries have the capacity and commitment to reorient their economic and social structures and policies; (d) national institutions will be willing to provide relevant and timely information; and (e) adequate extrabudgetary resources are obtained to support additional activities as needed.

3. Strategy

The responsibility for implementing the subprogramme lies with the Information and Communication Technology Division. Regional and global changes are taking place at the economic, social, cultural and political levels, with information and knowledge playing a major role in the move towards the information and knowledge society. The accelerating development in knowledge during the past few decades has modified the principles of economic growth with the move towards a knowledge-based economy affecting all sectors of the economy. Significant differences exist in the capacity of countries to adapt to changes in technology and knowledge. Consequently, the move towards the information and knowledge society constitutes a real challenge to developing countries, particularly in view of the expanding digital divide with developed countries, thus rendering them increasingly vulnerable to reduction in productivity and economic capacity which leads, in turn, to unemployment, poverty, corruption and marginalization. Greater efforts must be exerted in order to increase literacy and education levels and tap human resources and talent, especially among women and the growing youth population. With continued monitoring of activities pertaining to the World Summit on the Information Society Geneva Plan of Action and Tunis Agenda for the Information Society and the efforts made to implement the ESCWA Regional Plan of Action for Building the Information Society, in harmonization with the Arab ICT Strategy of the League of Arab States, the subprogramme will strive to adapt the Summit outcomes to better serve the region and fine-tune plans of action in order to build an inclusive, people-centred information society that is based on productive national ICT sectors.

The subprogramme, in its effort to meet the needs of member countries, will carry out analytical studies, convene meetings and provide advisory services to support that endeavour, act as a catalyst for changes in policymaking in member countries and promote the adoption of a more comprehensive set of ICT measurements and indicators that will help strategic decision-making to identify priority areas of policy action and measure the impact of ICT on socio-economic development. It will assess and revise plans of action based on feedback by member countries, monitor progress, evaluate impacts and benchmark national development with other countries based on international indices, with a view to improving the productivity and competitiveness of the ICT sector in the region towards building knowledge-based economy.

In order to enhance national capacity, with special focus on human resources development, and take advantage of the digital opportunities pertaining to socio-economic development in the region, pilot field projects will be implemented in selected member countries. Field projects will incorporate a social dimension through the active involvement of local communities, with a focus on youth employment and the empowerment of women, in order to build a people-centred and development-oriented information and knowledge society.

The subprogramme will continue to place special emphasis on promoting an enabling environment for harnessing the development of ICT thematic applications, including e-services, e-government, the digital Arabic content and social media, with the aim of building on ICT as an agent of change to empower citizens and improve the quality of life. In addition, the subprogramme will focus on leveraging ICTs for the development of the knowledge-based economies in the region.

Building on the accomplishments of the previous biennium in activating partnerships for implementing ICT projects, the subprogramme will enhance regional collaboration and partnerships in research and development (R&D) in science and technology, particularly ICT, for socio-economic development. To that end, it will promote the establishment of mechanisms aimed at exchanging information and sharing knowledge among regional players and with counterparts outside the region. In the same context, the subprogramme will continue to work with regional and global partners to enhance integrating infrastructure, regional backbones, and broadband strategies for more affordable access across the region. The subprogramme will also seek close cooperation and coordination with other ESCWA subprogrammes and with international and regional organizations including other United Nations regional commissions to promote knowledge-based economies, sustainable development, ICT impact measurement and empowerment of women and youth in the information society in order to achieve more effective results.

SUBPROGRAMME 5: STATISTICS FOR EVIDENCE-BASED POLICYMAKING

1. Logical framework

Objective: To build a tangible regional statistical system through statistical capacity development of member countries, in order to produce comparable, reliable, impartial, and relevant national data for evidence-based policymaking and research

Expected accomplishments	Indicators of achievement
(a) Improved provision of statistical data about member countries through collection and dissemination of official statistics and indicators in the field of economic statistics; energy and environment statistics and demographic and social statistics in support to informed policy	(a) (i) Increased number of member countries that provide at least 60 per cent of core socio-economic indicators for ESCWA  (ii) Increased number of database queries to online ESCWA statistical databases
(b) Improved national capacity for official statistics of member countries in line with the Fundamental Principles of Official Statistics to produce relevant, timely, reliable and comparable statistics in support of equitable growth, regional integration and good governance	(b) Increased number of member countries adopting, with ESCWA assistance, new or revised international statistical standards, including the System of National Accounts (SNA), foundational socio-economic classifications and in compliance with the Fundamental Principles of Official Statistics, for better regional comparability
(c) Strengthened Regional Statistical System in support of regional integration with an active coordination among major players including regional and international organizations and a more active participation by member countries	(c) (i) Increased number of joint statistical capacity-building activities that are coordinated with regional partners by ESCWA  (ii) Increased number of tangible outputs of statistical coordination (harmonized databases, joint questionnaires, joint data products) produced under the leadership of ESCWA in the region

2. External factors

Subprogramme 5 will achieve the expected accomplishments on the assumption that: (a) there are no significant shortfalls in regular and extrabudgetary resources for statistical capacity-building; (b) the regional and international organizations active in official statistics in the region willingly cooperate with ESCWA; (c) the ESCWA Statistical Committee maintains its steering role in setting priorities and providing a strategic direction; and (d) there is minimum political stability and a secure working environment, sufficient to facilitate a cooperative environment among member countries in the region and enable the effective implementation of technical cooperation.

3. Strategy

The responsibility for implementing this subprogramme lies with the Statistics Division. There is a continued need to align the production and dissemination of statistics in the region with the emerging societal changes due to the Arab Spring, improving the relevance and comparability of statistics in a democratic society at the regional level in social, economic and cross-cutting issues. Addressing those challenges will strengthen the role of statistics in evidence-based policymaking and in monitoring and evaluating the impact of development policies.

Expectations sometimes exceed the capacity of ESCWA, and therefore, ESCWA will seek partnerships with other organizations (United Nations, as well as non-United Nations) that are active in statistics in the region and to coordinate statistical capacity development in order to achieve higher efficiency, and to share data and harmonize questionnaires in order to obtain more consistent data, decrease reporting burden and better utilize resources available for data work at each organization. To this end, ESCWA will primarily utilize the Regional Coordination Mechanism – in particular the Statistics Coordination Taskforce – but also other means of coordination. ESCWA will also strengthen its internal coordination mechanism for statistical activities.

During the biennium 2014-2015, the subprogramme will concentrate on three main roles: collection and dissemination of data (around 30 per cent of the resource capacity); statistical capacity development (around 60 per cent of the resource capacity); and coordination of statistical activities with regional and international players in official statistics active in the region (around 10 per cent of the resource capacity).

The priority areas for data collection, processing and dissemination include foundational demographic, social, economic and sectoral statistics that are a basis of official statistics. Data collection shall focus on collecting data directly from member countries and on sharing data with other partners active in statistics in the region. Statistical activities will also include analysis, extrapolation, interpretation and tailoring of data to users needs. Advanced techniques shall be implemented for dissemination and communication of data, using appropriate visualization, re-usable and accessible formats. Proper attention shall be paid to communicating statistics to media and public.

Statistics about the region can only be improved, when the methodological and quality issues are addressed at the source – national statistical offices and other national producers of official statistics. This will be addressed through identifying gaps and discrepancies and through capacity development programmes. Therefore, the statistical capacity development at the national level is at the core of any efforts of getting better coverage, relevance, timeliness and comparability of data. Improving data coverage, increasing frequency of some surveys and achieving better harmonization and compliance with international standards are the main goals. The subprogramme will advocate the importance of full adherence to the Fundamental Principles of Official Statistics, especially those which address the following issues: (a) the impartiality of official statistics and their availability to the public; (b) the use of appropriate methods and procedures for the collection, processing, storage and presentation of statistical data; and (c) the presentation of information on sources and methods according to internationally agreed standards.

ESCWA will take an active role in ensuring that major players in official statistics coordinate their activities in the region. Quality of statistical data is a primary concern to all producers and users of statistics. This involves such attributes of data as consistency, timeliness, international comparability, etc. In this regard, it is important to ensure that reporting burdens on member countries are minimized and that data are shared among international organizations to the maximum extent possible. This will not only improve the efficiency and effectiveness of the work, but also respond to calls by member countries for decreasing response burden. To this end ESCWA shall step in coordination of statistics among national and international organizations active in the region having the above objectives in mind, while respecting the needs and specifics of each involved organization. To enhance coherence across the United Nations system and coordination among international agencies, the subprogramme will work in close cooperation with the Department of Economic and Social Affairs (DESA) and the Economic Commission for Africa (ECA). The subprogramme will take active part in cooperative and coordination initiatives of the global statistical system.

In order to accomplish this strategy, the subprogramme will concentrate on efforts to: (a) act as a centre of excellence and a forum for exchange of views in statistical issues for member countries; (b) provide training at the national, subregional and regional levels; (c) work, in close and/or direct cooperation and coordination with professional staff in national statistical offices of member countries, on data quality assurance and the implementation of international classifications and recommendations; (d) respond to requests for technical assistance coming from member countries; (e) assist in the exchange of expertise among member countries; and (f) build trust with counterparts in member countries.

SUBPROGRAMME 6: ADVANCEMENT OF WOMEN

1. Logical framework

Objective: To reduce gender imbalances, encourage exchange of lessons learned among member countries and contribute to increased respect of the rights of women in line with international conventions and conferences

Expected accomplishments	Indicators of achievement
(a) Enhanced capacity of member countries to adopt gender-sensitive policies and legislation in order to attain equal rights of women in line with international conventions and conferences and internationally agreed development goals	(a) (i) Increased number of initiatives (strategies, policies, and programmes) for the advancement of women, that are designed by National Machineries for Women with ESCWA assistance, are adopted and implemented in their respective countries  (ii) Number of reservations on articles of the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women removed by member countries, with ESCWA support
(b) Enhanced capacity of member countries to combat gender-based violence through enactment of legislation and development of national action plans	(b) (i) Increased number of national strategies to combat gender-based violence formulated with ESCWA assistance  (ii) Increased number of legislation enacted, with ESCWA support, to protect women from gender-based violence
(c) Enhanced capacity of member countries to adopt and implement participatory governance and national development policies based on the equal participation of individuals, men and women, with a particular focus on enhancing the position of women in democratic decision-making processes	(c) (i) Increased number of national action plans that adopted a participatory approach as a result of ESCWA assistance  (ii) Number of civil society organizations that participate in public policy formulation, implementation, monitoring and evaluation processes, with ESCWA support

2. External factors

Subprogramme 6 will achieve the expected accomplishments on the assumption that: (a) there is a political will for enhancing the role of national machineries and strengthening dialogue with civil society; (b) member countries take measures to align their commitments to the outcomes of international conventions and conferences on gender equality and the advancement of women with existing laws, regulations and practices; (d) the political situation in the region does not further deteriorate; and (e) current political changes in the region do not reverse acquired gains and do not lead to a deepening of the inequality gap.

3. Strategy

The responsibility for implementing the subprogramme lies with the ESCWA Centre for Women. Notwithstanding the progress accomplished by member countries towards the advancement of women, the economic participation of women and their representation at the economic and political decision-making levels continue to be lower than in other regions of the world. Furthermore, combating violence against women remains a serious challenge in the region, especially in conflict-stricken areas. Moreover, current popular movements represent a risk as they may result in either pushing forward the agenda of gender equality and the advancement of women in the region, or reverse acquired gains. Therefore, there is a need to foster greater participation of civil society, especially the youth, in public policy formulation and active dialogue with governments.

Building on the experience gained in past biennia, the subprogramme will concentrate on three main areas, namely (a) building the capacity of member countries to adopt gender-sensitive policies and legislation to attain equal rights of women in line with international conventions and conferences and internationally agreed development goals; (b) building the capacity of member countries to combat gender-based violence through the enactment of legislation and development of national action plans; and (c) participation of men and women and civil society in public policy formulation, implementation, monitoring and evaluation processes. They will be pursued in accordance with the outcomes of the fifth session of the Committee on Women, which will be convened in December 2011.

In respect of the first area, the subprogramme will intensify its efforts to enhance the institutional capacity of national machineries, and other stakeholders such as members of parliament, the judiciary, the media and civil society institutions, through regular dissemination of new knowledge on gender issues, the provision of advocacy tools and research methodology, and the development of in-house training, knowledge and skills. The subprogramme will also provide forums in which national machineries in the ESCWA and other regions can actively share knowledge and experiences in the area of gender mainstreaming and implementation of international women instruments.

In the second area, the subprogramme will work on building the capacity of member countries and other stakeholders in combating gender-based violence through the enactment of special laws to protect women from violence and end impunity for this crime. The subprogramme will also work on enhancing the capacity of those stakeholders to address the root causes of violence, raise awareness about its negative effects, and take concrete measures in that regard. In line with that endeavour, due attention will be paid to the national machineries in conflict-stricken countries in order to address the special needs of women living in those areas.

In the third area, the subprogramme will focus on ensuring that men and women are actively engaged in policy dialogue with governments. In this context, the subprogramme will work on building the capacity of civil society institutions in public policy formulation, implementation, monitoring and evaluation processes through the organization of capacity-building workshops and promulgation of normative and analytical work. The subprogramme will act as a regional forum for joint governmental and non-governmental discussions on gender issues.

The subprogramme has been active in fostering relationships between government bodies dealing with the empowerment and advancement of women and civil society organizations through meetings to analyse and discuss the situation of women at the regional level. It will continue to work closely with other United Nations entities and regional organizations, including United Nations Women, the United Nations Development Fund for Women, the United Nations Population Fund, the United Nations Development Programme Subregional Resource Facility for Arab States, the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights, the International Labour Organization, the League of Arab States, the Arab Women Organization and the Center for Arab Women Training and Research, in order to consolidate and enhance the impact of development support in the area of the advancement of women in the region.

SUBPROGRAMME 7: CONFLICT MITIGATION AND DEVELOPMENT

1. Logical framework

Objective: To mitigate the impact of conflict and its spillover effects in the ESCWA region through strengthening dialogue, peacebuilding, governance reform and public sector modernization

Expected accomplishments	Indicators of achievement
